From Where The West Begins.

By JOHN T. MEYERS.
For The Sea Coast Echo.

TODAY is the birthdate of President Chester A. Arthur, 21st president of the United States. He was born in 1822 at Fairfield, Vt. of Scotch-Irish ancestry. Episcopal faith, and lawyer by profession. President Arthur was inaugurated in 1881 at the age of 50 years, and served one term of office. He died in New York City, 1886, and was buried at Albany, N. Y. Arthur had two sons and one daughter. Among outstanding events of Arthur's administration were: Organization of the Red Cross, Brooklyn Bridge opened, 2-cent letter postage, and completion of Washington Monument.

THURSDAY was the birthdate of President Rutherford B. Hayes, born in 1822. Hayes was the 19th United States President. He was born at Delaware, Ohio, of Scotch ancestry, Methodist faith, and a lawyer by profession, inaugurated in 1877 at the age of 54 years. Hayes died at Fremont, in his 70th year, and is buried at the place of his death. Hayes had 7 sons and one daughter, second largest family of any president. President Harrison leads the list having had 10 children.

SAN ANTONIO gardens have many beautiful flowers, but a rare plant which was given publicity in local press papers is creating much interest among flower lovers. It is a sacred lily brought from Jerusalem 10 years ago in the form of a bulb. The plant blossoms during September, and is of brilliant flame color.

THIS third meeting on the field of "honor" between Guy Lachambre and Jacques Renouvin, two Frenchmen, to settle a personal difficulty is becoming a habit. We suggest the boys meet in the alley, and battle it out American fashion. Made the lads have a press agent who arranges the harmless pistol and sword play.

DAYLIGHT saving time ended at 2 o'clock last Sunday morning. Radio fans realized this fact when they attempted to dial their favorite selections without encountering changed programs. The kiddies are against the time change over. It automatically moves the popular Amos 'n Andy capers past their bedtime.

WANT to become the center of attention on short notice? Try to pass a 10-dollar United States gold note certificate in a strange city. A lady made a purchase with one of these bills in a department store, since the Hauptmann arrest was started to find herself surrounded by police, detectives, federal men, reporters, and news cameramen. However the money had no connection with the Lindbergh kidnapping ransom money. Profuse apologies were in order.

Someone wisely said: The easiest advice to give and the hardest advice to take is the advice not to worry.

WORD has been received at Randolph Field of Carole Lombard's selection as leading lady for Metro-Goldwyn-Fayer's picture, "West Point of the Air" to be filmed at the flying field, about the first of the year. Miss Lombard replaces Myrna Loy, previously selected for the role. Either Robert Montgomery or Robert Young will play the leading male part. Wallace Beery will have a part in the picture.

WORK AND PLAY AT S. J. A.

AS enjoyable as the girls found vacation, most of them were not adverse to a change. Hence the opening of school found the majority of them bubbling over with enthusiasm. Each and every girl, from the youngest to the oldest, was so full of life and energy that she was "to be real good and study as she had never done before." Of course similar promises had been made before. But never for such a long period have we seen such determination and grit manifested in carrying out their respective resolutions.

What ever has come over the so-called "triflers and loafers" is a mystery yet to be solved. From all appearance they are out to show the world that they intend to use their brains for the good of the world, the more you use your brains the more you have."

A TRIBUTE TO THE FRESHMEN.

No siren, you can't say anything about the Freshies to a Senior, unless it's something nice, of course. Why this sudden affection and loyalty, you ask? Why simply because the Freshies of '35 have proved themselves to be the best sports seen at the Old Alma Mater. Those little Greenies certainly did surprise us. They took their bitter dose and grinned. In spite of their obvious discomfort and bedraggled appearance, the conduct of the Freshies during and after the initiation proved that their class understands the meaning of good sportsmanship. In return, we the Class of '35 congratulate them and bid them welcome.

SODALITY NEWS.

At the first meeting of the school year an explanation of the purpose and aim of the Sodality was given to the new comers. The election of officers took place with the following results: Prefect, Almie Hauser; Secretary, Jane Juden; Treasurer,

25 JOIN COLUMBUS COUNCIL

At Biloxi Last Sunday—Candidates from All Sections of Coast Received

A class of about twenty-five candidates were initiated as third degree members of the Knights of Columbus at Biloxi, Sunday, September 30. The candidates were from several councils throughout the State including Vicksburg, Natchez, Jackson, Biloxi, Gulfport and Bay St. Louis Councils.

Candidates from Bay St. Louis who were initiated Sunday were Rev. Fr. Patrick Moran, Stanislaus Halpin and Norman Benigno. Following the initiation ceremonies the visitors and newly initiated candidates with a banquet. Among the speakers at banquet were State Deputy of the Knights of Columbus and Mayor-Elect of Biloxi John O'Keefe, and Walter Coquille, better known over the radio as the Mayor of Bayou Pomm.

Immediate Past State Deputy A. G. Favre, of Bay St. Louis, headed the candidates and delegates representing the Pere LeDuc Council of this city at Biloxi.

Knights of Columbus Order has suffered very little, if any from the ravages of depression. Both fraternal and insurance features, aside from the religious phase of the organization, attract many who sustain their membership regardless of conditions.

Many Children Flock To Bay Public Library After School Hours

While anxious mothers wonder just where their darlings are after school hours and hope fervently that they are not in striking distance of stingers, snakes, automobiles or Mickey McGuire, Miss Louise Crawford, librarian, finds that they simply flock to the Bay Library these days. According to Miss Crawford, there has been a great increase in the number of cards issued, lately, with six hundred and seventeen readers in all, while the Library now has eight hundred and eighty-two books.

Miss Crawford states that a new branch Library has been established at Sellers, making eight branches in all.

The Library Board will meet Monday morning at Ten in the Library rooms, Hancock County Bank Bldg.

STATES, CITIES, MUST PAY

States and cities have been called upon to pay a larger share of relief costs by Harry Hopkins who has been carefully investigating wealth, taxes and other resources in order to determine what these units can reasonably pay.

ARMY TO BUY PLANES

The Army air corps will buy from 700 to 800 new airplanes a year until it has 2,300 first-class machines. The plan has been approved by the President.

WATCH HOUSING CAMPAIGN

Officials are keenly watching the housing program, under the leadership of James A. Moffett, former Standard Oil executive, and there is no doubt that much is expected. That it may release frozen capital in many banks and begin a building boom, which will mean a revival of the building trades.

Lorraine Quintini. The following girls were elected as chairmen of the different committees: Eucharistic, Kathleen Gordon; Our Lady's, Pearl Chanvin; Mission, Nina Benedetto; Social, Dorothy Tudary. As this is the month dedicated to the Holy Rosary, the members have pledged themselves to recite a third part of the Rosary daily. A group recites the rosary in church at 12:45 and another group at 3 o'clock. In preparation for the Feast of the Holy Rosary, the Sodality members were asked to make a triduum of Masses and Holy Communions.

FIRE DESTROYS INTERIOR CARROLL AVENUE DWELLING

Single Frame Building Owned By Miss Cuneo Partially Destroyed Tuesday Forenoon

Originating from the explosion of a bathroom kerosene oil hot water heater, fire destroyed the interior surfaces of the one-story frame building in Carroll avenue, owned by Miss Lottie Cuneo and occupied by Mrs. W. J. Kidd and family shortly before 12 o'clock Tuesday forenoon.

"I had first lighted the heater," said Mrs. Kidd, "preparatory to taking a bath. While waiting for the water to heat, I went into another part of the house. It was not long before I was aware there was fire in the house. Soon the interior enveloped in flames. All I could do was to save the table silverware and escape, the hair on one side of my head was singed."

City fire department responded promptly and it was due to quick and efficient effort, coupled with an ample flow of water and pressure the fire was soon under control. But not until the whole inside had been gutted and furniture and furnishings damaged beyond repair. Force of explosion of the oil heater tore away part of the bath tub.

The outer shell of the house remains and possibly can be replaced, but the interior will call for treatment with entire new material.

While other property carried insurance this particular piece of property carried no insurance. The loss is difficult to estimate just now, it was said. Mrs. Kidd and family's loss consists of wearing apparel and linens, etc., and will run into considerable money, with no insurance.

Mrs. Kidd expresses appreciation and is grateful for the many kindnesses and proffers for assistance. The contents of her home were practically consumed and she and family were temporarily left homeless. To one and all she feels a deep sense of realization of a neighborhood and community-like spirit and is thankful.

For The Statue and Shrine of Our Lady Of The Woods, S. J. A.

Recently The Echo published a plea for funds with which to renovate the statue of the Holy Mother at the Shrine of Our Lady of the Woods, rear garden St. Joseph's Academy. The work accomplished the full amount necessary is short and further contributions are solicited, money to be remitted to Mother Superior Evelyn at the convent. It is planned to glass in the statue exposed to the elements, that has weathered 60 years of time, thus permanently protecting the figure and its artistic new garb of color. Already, through The Echo medium, Mother Superior received several cash donations—unsolicited. Further contributions by others is asked.

MOSS POINT TIGERS PLAY ST. STANISLAUS THIS FRIDAY, 3 P. M.

Tigers Coming With Fast And Shifty Backfield

The Moss Point Tigers boast of the two fastest backfield men on the Coast in Canfield and Lassiter. Both boys have done fine work in the two games to date. In the first encounter of the year, against Biloxi, Canfield went for a touchdown on the kick-off. Last week against Long Beach both boys indulged themselves in a track meet. Moss Point took the game 42 to 0, with Canfield doing stellar work in ball carrying.

Besides having good ball carriers, the team as a whole are the best blockers on the Coast. Holes are opened and the way paved, so that any ball carrier could get through. Add the speed of Lassiter and Canfield and you have the answer to the success of the Moss Point boys.

The Stanislaus boys came out of the Springfield game with a couple of cripples. Borne, regular full back, suffered a charley horse that will most likely keep him out of the Moss Point game. Stakelum developed a boil on his leg which will necessitate his being replaced. Big Frank Bonura pulled up in the third quarter with a bad knee.

"Chico" Gonzalez will most likely replace Borne. "Chico" did some fine work while in the game last Sunday. Ivicovich or Guidry will replace Bonura, while Ryan or Sandoz will be found in Stakelum's place.

FEDERAL HOUSING ACT EXPLAINED BY WORD AND SCREEN

W. P. Bridges, State Director of National Housing Act, Addresses People of Bay St. Louis

Under auspices of the Board of Mayor and City Commissioners, Chamber of Commerce co-operating, W. P. Bridges, state director for the National Housing Act, was the speaker at an advertised meeting in the interest of "contractors, bankers, building and loan officials, architects, material dealers and others interested in a kindred way."

Mr. Bridges visualized his remarks with the aid of a moving picture projection, showing the objects and aims of the Housing Act. Mayor G. Y. Blaize, Commissioners Bourgeois and Perkins were interested as were many citizens who learned of the provisions of the act.

The production began by showing that there are 16,000,000 homes and business places in the United States that need rehabilitation and repairs. Much of this work, it was illustrated, could be done if the owners could pay for the work on the installment plan and the idea and purpose of the Housing Act to provide capital for persons wanting the work done and give them an opportunity to pay for it on the installment plan.

Practically every phase of the work was taken up and explained by the display which was very complete, and at its conclusion Mr. Bridges answered questions. It was brought out that the government does not furnish the money but insures any group losses incurred by the lender up to 20 per cent. No mortgages, no abstract or other legal steps are necessary to obtain a loan, it was shown, it being up to the lender to select good risks. The borrower must satisfy the lender that he or she is a good risk and must have an income five times as large as the monthly payment due on the loan.

Banks and other lending agencies, it was stated, could borrow from the government 100 per cent on contracts taken if an emergency arose and the lender needed the money.

Next to agriculture more people are employed in the building trades than in any other industry and more than 75 per cent of workers engaged in the building trades are now idle, it is shown. Practically no repairs or other improvements have been made in the United States for five years, was the statement made in the explanations of the Housing Act presentation.

Architects, material men and contractors were urged to get out and hunt business and assist home owners to make applications for loans to rehabilitate their homes and other property.

Mr. Bridges told of a number of cities and towns in the state that had made much progress in placing loans for repairs and rehabilitation of homes. Application of the housing act, he said, was and would be one of the greatest agencies for banishing unemployment put on by the government in its attempt to overcome the depression.

PROPOSED GAS FOR BAY CITY

Senator A. B. Knott of Louisiana Applies For Franchise in Order to Make Survey

Senator A. B. Knott, resident of Ruston, La., and heavily interested in natural gas as piped and served for domestic services in Louisiana, was a recent visitor to Bay St. Louis conferring with the Sea Coast Echo, members of the Mayor and Commission Council and others interested in gas for domestic purposes in the Bay-Waveland section.

Senator Knott viewed the situation while here a few days ago and found a most encouraging situation, he said. "There is a fair field for the entry of any gas company, and with efficient and reasonably charged toll system the demand should increase," he said to The Sea Coast Echo.

The Senator, at the meeting of the Commission Council Monday morning asked for a franchise from the city, after which a survey would be made. The city would be made first to determine if there be a mutual interest, seeking the interest of the consumer. The city further expressed its desire to hear from other gas companies in order there might be a better competitive bid for franchise.

Senator Knott represents extensive natural gas fields and servicing of towns and cities and his companies are in a position, we understand, to serve the local and outlying territory. The Sea Coast Echo is glad to learn the keen and active interest Mayor Blaize and Commissioners Bourgeois and Perkins are manifesting in the premises. They, like us, are with the people who are seeking for gas. And we are desirous of procuring the best and most for the least consistent money.

Little Tommy Morrow Meets With Painful And Serious Accident

Tommy Morrow, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Morrow, residing in Court street, was the victim of a serious accident Tuesday. Tommy and John Osoinach, had been playing on a truck in the rear yard of the Osoinach premises. The driver came and apparently not knowing the children were about the truck drove it away, out of the yard and along the hardsurface of Court street. Young Osoinach finally got off but Morrow was unable to get up and dropped himself off with the result he fell backwards, his head striking the street. He was picked up in an unconscious condition and did not come to until the night of the next day. The driver said he did not hear the cry of the boys who wished to get off.

The condition of Tommy was serious and undetermined for two days. At this writing, while he is able to tell what happened, the true injury is not exactly determined until an x-ray examination will have been made. Tommy recently fully recovered from attack of spinal meningitis prior to which he had been ill for over a long period. It is hoped his misfortunes are a thing of the past and will not recur. The little fellow has been unusually unfortunate.

THE LONG ARM OF JUSTICE

AMERICANS were thrilled to hear of the arrest of a man named Bruno Hauptmann in New York and to learn that the police had found over thirteen thousand dollars of the ransom money paid by Colonel Lindburgh in 1932 for the return of his kidnapped child. Thirty months had passed since the heart-breaking crime but at length justice seems about to reach those guilty of the death of the little boy.

During the many months which passed since the discovery of the dead body of the little boy every once in a while one of the bills turned up, distinguished by the number it bore. Most of these were small, in five and ten dollar denominations, but a few weeks ago one of the twenty-dollar gold certificates was found in a bank, traced back to a shoe store, and officials still seeking to run down the guilty parties realized that here was a possibility of finding who had some of this money. Notice was given to many store-keepers and business men in the neighborhood, to be on the watch, and to make some record of any person passing such bills.

Finally, a second twenty-dollar gold certificate turned up in a bank. It had been deposited by the operator of a filling station, who had taken the precaution to copy the license number of the car of the man who had used it to pay for some supplies. The police in this way, by tracing the automobile license number, found the man, watched him, and subsequently, arrested him. When they searched his garage $13,750 was found in two hiding places—all bills delivered by Dr. J. F. Condon to the supposed agent of the kidnappers.

There is a lot of consolation in the discovery of Hauptmann. From the standpoint of Dr. J. F. Condon it is reassuring. This man was the unfortunate go-between, who obtained the $50,000 from Col. Lindburgh, met a representative of the kidnappers in a graveyard, and delivered the money. Nothing followed, and afterwards the baby was found dead. In some quarters suspicion was directed against the Doctor; in others he was pictured as a gullible fellow who had been taken by a bunch of crooks trying to capitalize on the crime, although the marks of identification handed Dr. Gordon seemed to indicate that he was in touch with the real kidnappers. Through the years which followed Dr. Condon has given many hours to his individual efforts to discover and punish the group who so brutally swindled him.

LIFE IS WORTHY OF LIVING

WHAT is life worth? Current events leave the reader somewhat in doubt. The War Department would prolong life, and does not have doctors enough to secure the desired advance in that direction. One man thought so little of earthly existence that he opened a double door of exit from it by shooting himself and diving into deep water at the same time. Fifty policemen tender their blood to keep one child on earth. The father of another left by the route of exhaust gases from his auto, taking his daughter and his dog with him. Although there is testimony on both sides, the hearing will have to be continued. When the evidence is all in, the case will rest right where it did before, most of us being willing to remain on the solid earth which, although not destined to abide forever, has outlasted many tomorrows and brought a contentment in living that in a darker day seemed impossible of attainment.

MOHAMMED AND TEXAS GRIT

MOHAMMED once had a little difficulty in making a mountain answer his word of command, and the outcome of the matter was that he said that if the mountain would not come to Mohammed, Mohammed would go to the mountain. "Texas is not issuing orders to mountains, but the inhabitants of that state which needed that sort of treatment. If the prophet of Islam had been favored with modern engineering skill, some dynamite, a few cableways, a number of steam shovels, and Texan grit and perseverance, the mountain might have come to him, and his reputation as a worker of wonders would have rested upon a more secure foundation.

EVEN IN THE PRINTING HOUSES!

INVESTIGATION shows that back in 1926, skipper of the Morro Castle was called to account for being lax about fire drills. Maybe the matter slipped his mind, or he may have had other things to attend to. His failure to come up to the mark eight years ago may not have amounted to much really, but it has appeared again to plague him. In printing houses or offices, or on the farm, there is no shortcoming that is so trivial, or buried so deeply, that it is not likely to make trouble, and sometimes the longer it has been buried, the worse is the odor when it is dug up.

We hope the housing campaign will be inaugurated under favorable conditions in Hancock county and that financial institutions here will cooperate in making it possible to repair, modernize and build homes on easy terms.

The churches of Bay St. Louis are open every Sunday; why not attend them?

BAY ST. LOUIS HEARS HOUSING ACT EXPLAINED

P. W. BRIDGES, prominent Jackson Miss., realtor and State Director of the Federal Government's new "Rehousing Program," addressed a gathering of local builders, realtors and interested citizens at the City Hall Monday morning.

Those who were so fortunate as to hear Mr. Bridges, were impressed with his belief that the new "better housing program," when carried to its conclusion will prove a solution to a great part of the unemployed problem of the nation.

Mr. Bridges explained, in an interesting and concise manner the aims and workings of "The National Housing Act" and pointed out how this act will benefit our community.

He informed his audience of the manner in which the money needed in making necessary or deserved improvements can be obtained.

Briefly—if you are one of the many millions of Americans whose home or business buildings are in need of repair and you have been postponing such repairs through lack of funds you may, if you are a good credit risk, go to your local bank or financial institution and borrow the amount needed and do your repairing at once—on your personal note. This money can be paid back in monthly installments over a period of one to three years.

The lending institution is guaranteed by the Federal Government. 20% of their losses on these rehousing loans.

"The 'Rehousing Act' was passed in the last days of the last session of Congress and signed by President Roosevelt and is now a law of the land. It is designed to wipe out the barriers of home financing that have arisen in the past few years of tight money and credit.

The act seeks to make available hundreds of millions of dollars of credit to be used in making the homes of Americans what they should be and also to prevent the vast waste of property, amounting in the past few years to almost a 10th of the nation's wealth, due to the destructive and deterioration caused by neglect.

Mr. Bridges urged the people of Bay St. Louis to "get busy," make a survey of property needing repairs—and then all that can and will take advantage of this new governmental financing proposition do so, and put the people of Bay St. Louis back to work.

The Biloxi Herald is preparing to issue a special edition celebrating its fiftieth anniversary, an occasion well worthy of celebrating. Many subscribers are writing in to the paper saying how long the paper has been coming into the home some subscribers since the month of that time first came off the press. The Echo will soon complete its 42nd year and we have a long list of original subscribers, families and individuals. People who have never missed an issue and never missed a subscription payment. These facts are matter of pride and gratification to the publisher. The Herald is to be congratulated on its achievement of fifty years.

RIVAL IN BUILDING INEVITABLE

IN a recent article in the Annalist, Walter Renton Ingalls says that the nation's residential building between 1920 and 1929 was not in excess of requirements. Even though the high average total of 5,000,000 new residents were enacted each year, changes in population density, increases in the total population, and obsolescence of old dwellings, prevented over-production of housing.

Since 1929, residential building has dropped from 5,000,000 homes a year to less than 100,000.

The shortage is especially acute in rural districts, inasmuch as depression forced an exodus from cities to the farm. Also, the rural homes offer the greatest field for raising the standard of housing through introduction of labor saving conveniences.

It seems inevitable that the United States, within the comparatively near future, will witness heavy increases in building and remodeling.

TO PRESERVE GAME BIRDS

THE Department of Agriculture is taking steps to preserve game birds for the accommodation of future generations of sportsmen. The wiping out of the passenger pigeon is a good example of what wholesale slaughter of feathered life can be accomplished. Why not compel hunters to use muzzle-loading guns, rather than modern rapid-fire weapons. The game then would have a chance, and a new industry would be built up, since muzzle-loaders now in existence are few, far between, and generally incapable of being used for the purpose for which they were intended. If the limit of conservation is desired, the law could throw the hunter back to the flint lock fowling piece.

PITY THE RURAL POSTMASTER

THE government has decided that anyone who wishes to go duck hunting must repair to the local postoffice and buy a dollar stamp to place upon the hunting license. The postmaster is a willing horse, having a broad back. The world is familiar with the phrase, "Let George do it." The postmaster, particularly outside the larger cities, is the official George. If someone is needed in a hurry for a new and non-profitable job, the postmaster is the man. He has to serve as stamp-licker, banker, deliverer of the merchandise, aid in the apprehension of criminals, and handler of the messages and business of the entire community. Anyone in search of a life characterized by plenty of time for reflection, and freedom from annoying detail, had better steer clear of the postmaster's shop in a rural or smalltown region.

As far as we are concerned we are willing to do without a hurricane this fall.

The best football coaches are in the stands and the best newspaper men are trying to succeed in some other business enterprise.

MERELY THEORETICAL

By GEORGE E. SCHILLING

EMPLOYING LABOR.

IT IS easy to think of the relations of two things to each other, but very difficult to think of the relationship of three things. Our minds like to work in straight lines, and object to turning around mental corners. Many illustrations of this fact might be given, outside of the field of economics, but it will be enough to try to make clear one illustration in that field. A couple of definitions are needed to be sure that we are thinking about the same thing. Capital is wealth employed in business (not wealth used for personal comfort and enjoyment.) Business is the use of capital and labor in the production, transportation and exchange, or sale, of goods.

We all think and talk of capital, or of business, as the employer of labor, a tendency which is highly encouraged by most of our capitalists and business men. The publisher of this paper, for instance, employs and pays several workers. Hence, we are told, the way to increase employment is to increase the prosperity of the publisher, and of other business men. That idea has been very important at Washington, both in this administration and in previous administrations. It is perfectly simple, just like the algebraic proof that two equals one. Here is the employer in business on the one hand, and the man looking for a job on the other. Bring the two together and you have the prosperity we are all longing for.

If you will study the proposition carefully, however, you may be able to understand the fact that business, if it is healthy, does not give work to anybody, with a very few possible exceptions. With all of the millions of people drawing wages and salaries in this country and in other countries this may seem a foolish statement to make. Indeed it is so ridiculous that bankers and other business men have to act on it without ever admitting it.

The third point that makes a triangle out of this relationship is the consumer, the buyer, the customer. He is the fellow who furnishes the money to pay labor. No matter how rich and successful a business man may be, he does not hire anybody unless he expects to get the wages back from his customers. He frequently advances wages out of capital, but he cannot pay out of capital without losing the capital, which a healthy business does not do.

A well known illustration may clear this up. Henry Ford is one of the ablest business men in this country, and one of the very richest. His wealth has been stated at one thousand million dollars and his income at forty-two million in one year. He is extensively advertised as a model employer. As long as he could sell his motor cars he employed a lot of men, "gave them employment," in the slang of the day. But when people stopped buying his Model T he fired all his employers except a few who were needed to work on the new model. Naturally he was not going to employ and pay them when he had nothing for them to do, and he had nothing for them to do, not because he was not prosperous himself, but because he did not have enough customers. Rich and successful as he was, he could not "give" employment to anybody. When people began buying his new model cars he did give employment again, not because he was a philanthropist, but because he needed the labor.

It is no attack on business to deny that it does something which it is not intended to do. The object of business, and of capital in business, is to accomplish more work with less effort, that is to reduce the necessary amount of work, not to increase it, and this is a very important object indeed, if we are not to go back to primitive conditions. In early days, when about all the capital in the West was in the rifles, axes and a few other simple tools of the pioneers, work was just what there wasn't nothing else but. Work days were twelve to sixteen hours long, and yet the rewards for such work were very small. Now that we have two thousand millions of excess reserves in the Federal Reserve banks and ten thousand millions more of idle capital in other banks, we have ten millions of unemployed, in spite of much shorter and easier working hours. The improvement in living standards is the achievement of business, and of increasing capital, and an achievement of which business is rightly proud. But the idle capital and idle men are also a result of the development of business and a result which business ought to concern itself about. If business does not then college professors and politicians are very sure to concern themselves about these facts.

Whatever solution is found, the one fact that may be accepted in advance is that it will not be found in any scheme based on care for the business man first. It will have to be some method which will employ the business and the business man as well as the laborer and the professional men. Business cannot go anywhere without a market, especially it cannot employ labor unless it has a market. Production and transportation methods in this country have been superior to those of Europe, not because we are any smarter than they are, but because we have had a larger and richer home market to support large scale production. We could make good automobiles cheap, because we could sell a whole lot of them. Europeans couldn't make such good cars at such

BILBO BECOMES SENATOR

(Vicksburg Evening Post)

THE people of Mississippi have spoken and T. G. Bilbo, former governor, is elevated to a seat in the august United States Senate.

It is good Democratic doctrine to graciously accept the voice of majority, and the Stephens followers bow to the verdict and will tender their well wishes to Mississippi's new senator-elect.

They hope he will have a successful career in Washington, and they, as well as their friends and backers in the late campaign, will stand ready to applaud work well done by Senator Bilbo.

No one has ever discounted or belittled Bilbo's ability as a campaign orator. They have appreciated his intense energy, his enthusiasm that has given him the will to win when difficulties seemed unsurmountable. Bilbo always retained a large personal following through Mississippi, and his friends have always seen and applauded his outstanding traits.

Bilbo has ever been a staunch Democrat and when he goes to Washington, he will doubtless line up for the leading objectives of the New Deal.

Bilbo has shown wonderful stamina in the race just closed. Day after day, week after week, month after month he has remained in the field, making many speeches daily. No one but a man of an iron constitution could have endured the strain and in the end remain smiling and good natured.

Bilbo has plenty of tact and talent, and he will find these most useful when he takes up his trying duties in the national capital.

Friends of Senator Stephens need feel no shame in their hour of defeat. Senator Stephens' campaign was clean and straightforward. They will continue to wish him well in whatever duties he assumes as a private citizen.

In the meantime, Mississippi's "Stormy Petrel" finds himself at the highest peak of his political career, and he will doubtless be shrewd and intelligent enough to make the most of his opportunity.

STANISLAUS WINNER OVER SPRINGHILL IN OPENING GAME HERE

Most Colorful Game in Years—Sponsors and Band Lend Tone to Gala Affair.

For the fifth time the St. Stanislaus Rockchaws set the Springhill Bay Badgers Down. The contest this year ended in the largest score ever to be earned by a Stanislaus eleven over Springhill. When the shades of evening closed about the score board a large 32 decorated the home club's portion of the board while the visitors were contented to take what they started with.

The game started off as if it were really going to be a close fight. The visitors held the Stanislaus backs to a scoreless first quarter. The home boys were unable to find themselves due to nervousness and "stage fright" of the first game.

The first game came early in the second quarter after each team had fumbled the ball around a couple of times. Quinn recovered on the Stanislaus thirty-five yard line from which point the Rockchaws started a march which brought them down to the Springhill three yard line on six plays. Springhill tightened their defense holding off the score for three plays. Garcia came through after catching a fumbled ball in mid-air, going around right end, "Chico" Gonzalez converted the extra point by a plunge over center. The half ended with the score 7 to 0.

Rockchaws Open in Third Period. The home boys opened up in the third period of play scoring three touchdowns before the bewildered Springhill team could get their bearings. The first two markers came through straight marches down the field without very much opposition. Garriga went around left end from the thirty-five yard with plenty of blocking before him for the second score of the game. The next came shortly after when Cripps intercepted a pass on his own 45 yard line. Four plays and the ball was over the line. Shortly after the kick-off, Springhill again elected to pass and again it was intercepted by another Rockchaw, Garriga deep in Springhill territory.

The subs were given a chance to score in the last period after Cripps intercepted another pass. A march down the field sprinkled with a few passes over the line brought the ball down for the fifth touchdown of the game. The try for extra point failed.

Coach "Wop" Glover showed a versatile team upon the field and before the season is over everyone will be proud of the fine work done by the boys. Blocking and tackling was off color in many parts of the game, both of these departments will receive a goodly share of the time of the boys this week.

The sponsors for the game were: The Misses Almie Hauser, Ruth Hauser, Tootsie Quinn, Helen Martin, Shirley Pecot and Jane Juden.

MISSISSIPPI NEEDS MORE CONCRETE ROADS

SUDDENLY, after tiresome miles of nervous driving on ordinary roads, a pleasing gray ribbon of true and even concrete swings into view. Jolts . . . wheel-kicks . . . tire grumbling . . . nervous tension slip behind you. You settle back at ease in your seat. Your fingers relax their grip on the wheel. Your car leaps ahead. Motoring regains its zest. You're on smooth, non-skid concrete, where driving is a pleasure. Concrete roads are safer. You're less apt to skid. You'll stop more quickly, more smoothly. Your tires are less apt to blow out. Visibility is better. You drive more easily, more skillfully—because you're relaxed.

You save up to 2 cents a mile in gas, oil, tires and car repairs on concrete compared with inferior surfaces. Seek concrete roads. Stay on them. Demand them.

LETTER OF APPRECIATION.

To the Members of Board of Supervisors and the People of Hancock County.

I am very deeply gratified over your expression of confidence in me by again offering me the position of county agent in your county. It is with very deep regrets that I decline to accept this honored and worthy position, and were it not that I had promised a great number of my friends and supporters that I will make the race for State Senate from the 40th district next year, I would entertain a motion to accept this offer and try to make for you the best farm agent possible.

I am always mindful of the cooperation and support I received when I served you as county agent. And I want to assure you of my cooperation in the future program that will make for Hancock county a more self sustaining and more progressive people.

Trusting that I might be of greater service to you in the future, than if I had served at your county agent I am,

Sincerely,
FRANK B. PITTMAN.

Subject.

T. H. Vanderford, federal county agent, who is located in Hancock county for several weeks to combat the ravages and to impede the progress of propagation of the screw worm, was the guest speaker of Bay

St. Louis Rotary Club Tuesday night at the Answer.

Mr. Vanderford gave an outline of the pest killing live stock, its habits of attack and destruction and method of eradication of the screw worm born of eggs from a fly, buries itself in the soil and a few days incubation transform it into the fly again which attacks sore or bruised spots of the victim. He said the worm had infestated and prevailed to dangerous extent in Texas, to which thousands of animals succumbed as prey.

In Hancock county alone, he said one sheep breeder in Leetown community originally owned 2500 sheep.

This number was now reduced to about 1200.

He gave the simple method of treatment. Daily talks from various school houses and other points serves as an intense campaign of eradication. The speaker said a normal winter would destroy the pest with devastating effect. However, a mild winter would not molest or destroy.

City Echoes

—Mrs. Edw. C. Carrere has returned from Natchez, Miss., where she spent a while with friends.

—After visiting home and friends, Mr. Edmund F. Fahey, Jr., left Sunday night for Nashville, Tenn., where he will remain until the Christmas holidays, continuing professional studies.

—Mr. George T. Herlihy and brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Herlihy, left during the week for Chicago to visit the World's Fair. They plan to be absent ten days.

—Mr. and Mrs. Ned Ivy and family returned to New Orleans the early part of the week following a season spent on the beach boulevard, occupying the lower apartment of the de Montluzin dwelling.

—Mrs. J. W. Kidd and family have leased the Quilbin building, Carroll avenue, near Second street, and will take possession Sunday.

Mrs. Kidd's place of dwelling was destroyed by fire Tuesday noon.

—Mr. Funston Mauffray, who recently underwent a surgical operation at New Orleans is visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. O. Mauffray, Main street, and is recuperating from the ordeal of the surgeon's knife.

—Mr. and Mrs. Alden L. Mauffray and young son, Larry, returned home Saturday night from Chicago, where they spent ten days visiting the world's fair and during which time they were house guests of friends. They visited Mammoth Cave on the return trip.

—Masters Hugh P. Burbank and Fortune Burbank entered Stanislaus College this session as "boarding pupils," heretofore day pupils. Mrs. Burbank contemplates spending part of the winter in New Orleans, her former home city, to the regret of Bay St. Louis friends.

—Many boys and girls away at school would be thankful to receive a copy of The Echo regularly each week. A subscription for the school term is only $1.00, in advance. The Echo received each week by a boy or girl away at school is like a letter from home. Send the subscription and dollar today.

—Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Badon left Thursday for McComb, where Mrs. Badon will spend a while visiting her parents. Mr. Badon continued on to St. Louis and will visit the world's fair at Chicago before returning home. He plans a ten-day vacation, the first this busy man has had in three years.

—Mrs. Hubert de Ben and talented young daughter, Melanie, returned to Bay St. Louis Saturday, after spending the summer at Hollywood, Calif., and three weeks at El Paso, Texas, with friends while en route home. Melanie appeared in song both at Hollywood and El Paso on public programs.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Betz, residents of Bay St. Louis for many years, have moved to New Orleans where they plan to make their home in future. Mr. Betz retired some time back from his business known as the "New Orleans Bakery." They will reside with a daughter in the city.

—Subscribers to The Echo moving back to New Orleans for the winter will please notify this office of the change, either by telephone or in writing, and change of address will be cheerfully and promptly attended to. No use to miss a single copy of The Echo. No trouble and no extra charge in postage to change a subscriber's address.

—Miss Louise Armstrong, well known and popular young business worker of this city, was conveyed to New Orleans the latter part of last week and is resting at Hotel Dieu, going through a process of system building and added strength preparatory to a major surgical operation. Gifted with rare optimism and courage Miss Armstrong will successfully undergo the ordeal. Her early recovery and return home is the ardent wish of a host of friends.

—Mrs. W. S. Speer, of Bay St. Louis, delegate from Bay St. Louis to the Harrison County Baptist Woman's Missionary Union, in annual convention at Gulfport last Friday, held at Grace Memorial Baptist Church, led the devotional on the subject, "What We Need and What the W. M. U. Needs Is God." The musical program included a solo by Mrs. James H. Sylvester, of Bay St. Louis, and a duet by Mrs. Sylvester and Mrs. G. C. Hodge of Biloxi.

—Mrs. John W. Bryan returned home the early part of the week, from New Orleans, in which city she spent a week at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Portune Jaubert and family, St. Charles avenue. Many friends of Mrs. Bryan will learn with more than ordinary interest of her complete recovery from a tonsillar operation. Social circles, in which Mrs. Bryan is exceedingly popular, gave her a double welcome back home.

—Friends of Mrs. R. C. Engman learn with more than ordinary gratification of the continued improvement in her condition within the past week. Mrs. Engman, at Baptist Hospital, New Orleans, has been critically ill, with little hope of rallying. Mrs. Engman, successful business woman and a leader in our community of constructive endeavor, is widely known and highly esteemed over a wide area of this section, particularly New Orleans, Mobile and the Gulf Coast. May her improvement continue.

Personal and General

BAY HI GRADUATE TO ENTER OBERLIN COLLEGE, OHIO.

Hubert C. Ashman, 708 South Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis, is planning to enter Oberlin College, Ohio, as a freshman this fall. With the other members of the Class of 1938 he attended Oberlin's Freshman Week September 14-19, which is designed to get the new students acquainted with one another and with the Oberlin campus before the upper-classmen arrive.

Ashman, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Richard A. Ashman, graduated from the Bay St. Louis High School in May. In addition to his curricular studies he was interested in debate, took part in the senior play, and was a member of the Boy Scouts. Oberlin is expecting an enrollment of approximately 370 freshmen in the College of Arts and Sciences this fall.

AN APPRECIATION OF MRS. SYLVESTER'S EFFORTS FOR CCC BOYS.

Mrs. James H. Sylvester, who was chairlady of a committee on amusement and recreation for the boys of U. S. CCC Camp, Hancock county, received the following letter of appreciation yesterday from Mobile Ala., signed by John H. Weindard, Jr., 1st Lt. 346 Infantry, U. S. Army. This official recognition is richly deserved and The Echo feels privileged to publish this from a sense of honor to whom honor is due. The letter follows:

"Dear Mrs. Sylvester: "Since you were a sort of unofficial chairman of the committee of chaperones I am writing this letter to you, and asking that you speak of it to Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Speer, who, with you, share in the commendation herein expressed.

"Your assistance was absolutely without parallel in the scope of the CCC movement, I feel sure. In no other camp within my knowledge is it possible for the Officer in charge of entertainment to merely call and say 'May we expect you to have enough girls ready for a party or a dance?'"

"And then be confident that when the trucks called on the appointed day that the girls would be there. In no other camp is there such a confidence in the chaperones on the part of the townspeople that mothers are eager for their daughters to attend camp functions. In no other camp has there been such hearty, wholehearted cooperation on the part of the chaperones. I could sing your praises for hours and not exhaust the truth, and you may be sure that I sincerely appreciate the load you took from my shoulders, and that the men in the camp appreciate all that you have meant to them.

"Please accept my thanks, and my wish for a happy continuance of your good work. My personal regards to you all, and to the young ladies who have helped to make our dances a success."

Caramel Cookery

CARAMEL is a good home-made flavor made by burning sugar. A good bit may be made at one time, putting it away in a glass jar in a cool place for future use.

Put granulated sugar without water in a deep aluminum pan, over a medium fire and stir constantly while the sugar dissolves. It must not scorch; as soon as it has melted and is golden brown it is ready for use—add three tablespoons of hot water to each cup of syrup, to prevent turning back to sugar when cold.

Caramel Bread Pudding

Place two thick slices of bread cut in small pieces into the bottom of a baking dish, dot with butter, a few raisins and a half cup of sugar, pour one half cup of caramel over this. Beat two eggs light, add two
